MediaVillage is the media and advertising community’s leading destination for original journalism, thought leadership and native content. MediaVillage hosts an archive of more than 6,000 commentaries on a wide range of relevant industry topics. More than 60 industry leaders and popular journalists call MediaVillage their publishing home.

MediaVillage content and community channels include WomenAdvancing, 1stFive, Legends & Leaders, Planet Ed, Lunch at Michael’s, Wall St. Speaks Out on Media, Jack Myers’ TomorrowToday and The Future of Men. MediaBizBloggers serves as the publishing hub of several media company micro-sites as well as commentaries from distinguished industry thought leaders, including Stuart Elliott, Mike Drexler, Charlene Weisler, Brian Jacobs and Paul Maxwell.

MediaVillage Editorial Guidelines

MediaVillage publishes content associated with the advertising and media industry at large, featuring commentaries surrounding research and data, ad automation, audience measurement, digital trends, radio and out-of-home, as well as television and video reviews, industry event coverage and personality profiles of established and emerging industry leaders. For approved member company contributors who provide a minimum of 12 annual original commentaries, we will develop a dedicated stand-alone business-to-business destination site within MediaVillage, and will supplement their site with at least four profiles and relevant commentaries.

General

• MediaBizBloggers e-mail newsletters do not charge a subscription fee.
• We will not consider blatantly self-promotional content for publication.
• We allow multiple contributors/bloggers to each MediaBizBloggers community platform.
• We will maintain profiles of contributors and companies that sustain at least 1 quarterly content post, to be provided by the contributor/company or by MediaVillage.
• Our editors reserve the right to revise headlines, correct typographical and other apparent errors, and to make editorial revisions.
• We accept only original and exclusive content submissions and require 24 hour exclusivity prior to repurposing on corporate sites, LinkedIn and other distribution sources, which is permitted with active links to the original publication at MediaVillage.
• Content submissions range from 400 to 1,000 words long.
• Our editors should receive content 48 to 72 hours prior to its targeted publication date. Contributors will be informed of a confirmed publication date within 24 hours of publishing. Editors may at their discretion accept content with shorter lead time.

Licensing

• All content submitted to and published by MediaBizBloggers is licensed without restriction to MediaVillage/MyersBizNet, Inc. and may be repurposed in unlimited formats and distribution models by MyersBizNet without restriction, provided full attribution acknowledges the author and/or company providing the content.
• The contributing author and company accept full responsibility for the accuracy of content, for obtaining required authorization for content included in the commentary, and liability for any inaccuracies or issues arising from contributed content. This includes photography and graphics.

Media

• Images, video, links and other rich media content are accepted at the discretion of our editors. Editors retain full rights to accept or reject submitted content without restriction.

Distribution

• All editorial contributions will be posted to MediaVillage, will be promoted on social media, and will be considered for e-mail distribution, with regular contributors and member company contributions given priority. We also encourage contributors to actively promote content through their own social channels.
• MediaVillage editors curate multiple commentaries daily, and distribute content via multiple website, mobile and e-mail distributions.

NOTE: MediaBizBloggers community platforms are exclusively available to MyersBizNet member companies and/or with express permission from Jack Myers.
